I was born and raised in Juneau and graduated from Juneau-Douglas High School. I studied archaeology at Yale University and attended law school at Harvard and Seattle University. While completing my degree at SU, I clerked full-time for a Juneau law firm, then returned to Alaska with my wife and raised a family.

For 25 years, I've practiced law in Juneau, just a few blocks from the hospital where I was born. I'm grateful to work with partners I enjoy and esteem, before judges I respect, and for clients who have often become friends.

Over the years, my civil practice has expanded to include estate matters, adoptions and guardianships, accident and insurance claims, and property and contract disputes. I learn something new every day by helping people find solutions to the wide variety of their legal issues.
