Position(s) for which you wish to be considered:

Alaska Supreme Court

Date: July 20, 2022

I docked in Valdez in March of 1999, a newly-minted Army wife on her way to Fort Wainwright. A serene bald eagle flew across the parking lot carrying a milk carton in its talons, and I knew I was home.

I worked for a small civil firm in Fairbanks and then, after we started a family, the Army relocated us to Anchorage. I worked part time from the spare bedroom with a bit of contract work on the side. We relocated to Fairbanks and I grew a civil, appellate and transactional practice.

Alaska has afforded me many opportunities to learn and grow as an attorney, and as a person. I have represented indigent clients; litigated civil, administrative and appellate cases; and worked as a corporate, regulatory, and employment lawyer, most recently, as an in-house advisor.

I have worked hard my entire life and I am ready for this challenge.
